Python rescue!

WREL employees rescued a Python from AP 30 MW plant site and released it in its natural habitat.

Good work!

Note - Snakes do not ordinarily prey on humans. Unless startled or injured, most snakes prefer to avoid contact and do not attack humans. With the exception of large constrictors, non-venomous snakes are not a threat to humans.

Snake rescue in Trombay!

Trombay fire team rescued a Russel Viper with the help of a certified snake catcher from Manav Abhyas Sangh NGO.

Great work!

Benefits:

Some snake species have become threatened due to land clearing for agriculture, urban development and through the introduction of animals such as domestic pets and the cane toad. Maintaining a high level of biodiversity is important to all life on Earth, including humans, and snakes are an important part of that biodiversity.

The more you learn about snakes, the more you learn that they are incredible creatures worthy of our respect and protection - animals that we can learn to live with.
