Care for Biodiversity!

Team TPSSL rescued a snake at factory premises with the help of snake rescuer. Post rescue, the snake was released in the nearby jungle area.

Benefits:

Snakes can be both predator and prey. While a large prey population attracts and sustains a large snake population, the snakes also become prey for birds, mammals and even other snakes!

Note:

If you see a snake, do not panic or try to kill it. They attack only in defence. Observe from a distance and seek help from the certified snake rescuer. Most of the snakes are harmless (only 2% of Indian snakes are venomous).
