COVER STORY

Inspiring stories of Organic Gardening campaign

While you do purchase leafy vegetables, do you know how it is grown? The answers might be different! To remain in good health, a lot of us consume these leafy vegetables regularly, but given the amount of chemicals used when growing these veggies, consuming them may do more harm than good. These chemicals can have devastating effects on aquatic animals as well.

To raise awareness on this issue and to promote Organic Gardening, a campaign was held by Team Greenolution. Here are some inspiring Organic Gardening stories received from employees.
